

Rachel Want, Assistant Headteacher,
Glade Hill Primary School

- Qualified Maths Specialist Teacher
- Leader of Maths and Assessment
- Experience predominantly KS2
- Ongoing strategic partnership work with Headteacher to drive standards in teaching and learning
- Lengthy experience of coaching and mentoring

'I enjoy experimenting with different approaches to continuing professional development and thinking outside of the box. I am looking forward to extending my experiences and working in partnership with colleagues from other settings.'

Rachel is Assistant Head at Glade Hill Primary School. She has leadership responsibility for mathematics and assessment, and strategic responsibility for improving teaching and learning across school. She has teaching experience across school, including the Foundation Stage.

Rachel has a passion for mathematics and has qualified as a Maths Specialist Teacher. She has led assessment in school for over ten years and has well-developed skills in interpreting data to support colleagues in raising standards.

Rachel has completed leadership training through Nottingham University and NCC and has experience in curriculum design, initial teacher training, performance management and phase leadership.

Rachel is able to provide tailored, specialist support for Maths Leaders and school leadership to raise standards across school; promote effective use of data and develop data led curriculum change.

