- Data Analysis / Gap & Strength Analysis
- Continuous Provision

“Teaching in the Early Years is such a rewarding career and to see children develop and grow through excellent provision and the right opportunities presented to them, is by far the most exciting part of my job. The professional development I have experienced has allowed me to progress in my career and enabled me to support and guide others in theirs. To have the opportunity to support others and to have the chance to gain new experiences from other professionals in other settings is an exciting prospect to both enable others to provide excellent provision as well as continue to develop myself.”

Sharon has 16 years of teaching experience that spans across both the Early Years and KS1. She has worked as an Early Years teacher at Old Basford School for 8 years and has been an established class teacher in F1 and F2, the transition teacher across Foundation Stage.

Sharon is the lead teacher for the Early Excellence Project ‘Principles into Practice’ which has had a huge impact on progress and attainment as well as transforming the learning environment and the children’s skills of independence and learning. She has lead staff training on these developments and encouraged all members of the Early Years team to be fully involved in the positive changes we have made and valued their ideas and contributions.

Sharon can support data analysis and assessment, producing in-depth gap and strength data analysis and share the findings with leaders and the team so that all colleagues are aware of areas of development and children or groups of children that need intervention or further support to enable them to achieve their full potential. She can tailor programmes to support leadership development.
